Now Once Again.

Now Autumn comes with balmy days The season that we love to praise; When we forget three score and ten, To dream of boyhood once again. Warned by the changing of the skies, The blue-birds sing their last good-byes;

We hear the calling of the jay, and Robin Red Breast flies away.

Now Golden Reds are all in bloom, The air is laden with perfume; And since the summer days have fled, The leaves are turning yellow, red.

The festive chipmunk is astir, Roused by a falling chestnut burr; We see the hill tops through a haze, And have our "Injun Summer" days.

Now once again our hopes are high, 'Tis Autumn, time for Pumpkin pie; Though amply served we lay a plan, To call the waiter back again; Yet we have only reached the dawn, Thanksgiving comes still later on;

With Turkey done just to a turn, A dish not even a king would spurn. Now once again we heave a sigh 'Tis add, subtract and multiply;

School days begin, week after week, We "solve" and "parse," read Latin and Greek;

The small boy now keeps a pin, And scarce can keep a holdin' in; While taller lads limp 'round in pain; They play at football down the lane.

Now once again come lengthened nights, With all their list of glad delights; And round the old familiar hearth, We meet again in joyous mirth,

Now fashion changes with the year, The shirt waist man will disappear, And woman, bless her for all that, Will whisper of the winter hat.

EMMA GOLDMAN,

The Queen of Anarchists, Confessing to a Conspiracy.

Emma Goldman, the anarchist queen, confessing to conspiracy and implicating all those who had anything to do with it, would make it an easy job for the detectives and police. And just so in your case. If you have your eyes properly fitted so as to relieve you entirely of any headache, nervousness, blurring vision, with running together, etc., etc., you have no idea how much easier and how much more pleasantly you can do twice as much business and not get half so tired.

H. P. Lorchach, Scientific Optician, will be at the Norwood Hotel, room 23, until Saturday Sept. 21. Consultation and examination free. Mr. Lorchach certainly understands his business, and from the amount of work he is doing here it shows that the people of Marietta certainly appreciate a man of the kind. "Having fitted hundreds of our people on his former trip to our city." Yesterday was a very busy day for him, more people having called at the office than in any day before. Office hours, 8:30 to 11:30 A. M. 1:30 to 4:30 P. M., standard time. Phone for appointments.

Dan Spangler, operator at the B. & O. freight, says:

Marietta, O., Sept. 3, 1901. This is to certify that on April 11, 1901, I had severe eye trouble, a curtain sometimes seemed to be pulled down over the sight of my left eye, which for the time being would destroy the sight of it. I went to Dr. H. P. Lorchach, scientific optician, at the Norwood Hotel, and after a most thorough examination of my eye found that I had detachment of the retina, a piece of which having broken loose, was floating in the vitreous humor, causing the curtain effect, and was due to severe eye I had subjected my eyes to without glasses. As I had a very high degree of myopic astigmatism, which he corrected by the proper glasses, which I have worn almost constantly since and have given me entire relief and perfect satisfaction. I certainly can recommend the doctor to any one needing a competent man in his profession.

DAN SPANGLER

Political Hysterics.

Most Lamentable Comedy is the title of a powerful novelette by Mr. William Allen White, which begins in the September 21 issue of the Saturday Evening Post, of Philadelphia. This absorbing serial is a study of political hysterics—the story of a State gone mad. The scene of the novel is a Western State laboring under the burdens of a panic year. The century figure is a grocery store demagogue, whose harveasted oratory captures the State convention. The story rises to a height of dramatic power and intensity rarely equalled in the fiction of the day.

PRICES

Opened at From 3 to 5 Points Higher than Friday.

By Associated Press.

New York, Sept. 16.—There was a rampant bull stock market on the first day of trading following the death of the President. The day's events seemed to demonstrate a strong underlying confidence in the future business and the continuance of the country's prosperity. Powerful manipulation avowedly had its part in the day's rise in prices, especially in the opening, which was designed to intimidate the speculative bear element. Not only had it that effect but it caused a scramble to cover on the part of uncovered shorts. There also was an abatement of order to buy at prices below the market.

The opening was from 3 to 5 points higher than on Friday afternoon. There were many realizing movements during the day but the absorptive power of buying proved equal to all these and with a steady uplift of trading closed active and firm at about the top level of the day.

Except the speculative issues, which were active, the price movement in railroad bonds was not large. U. S. New 4's advanced 1 per cent.
